

INDIVIDUAL ORAL FRENCH PORTFOLIO

BREAKDOWN

This piece of evidence consists of an individual oral where we had to speak French for fifteen minutes, using all the language skills we've developed throughout our two-year experience. We had to describe a picture that was provided to us at that moment and talk about its global significance.

RISK-TAKER

I really believe that by doing this oral you are taking a risk. Despite the fact that you've been learning the language for two years or more, you are still putting yourself out there to a conversation that you never know how it's going to turn out in the end. I feel like I took that uncertainty and turned it into confidence during this oral. I also believe my risk-taker abilities were expanded through the very crucial topics I got to discuss within my oral assessment. Not only was I practicing my French, but I was also having a genuine conversation with my teacher about very pressing issues in society, which I thought was amazing.

LEARNING ABOUT MYSELF

After completing this oral, I figured out something very important about myself. Beforehand, I knew I comprehended French and I could somewhat speak the language. However, what I wasn't aware of was how much I actually knew. Certainly, my pronunciation and conjugation weren't perfect but I still managed to hang in there just enough to keep the conversation flowing which made me feel incredibly engaged and I loved it!

IN THE FUTURE

I actually want to carry on with my French knowledge given that my higher education demands three or more languages acquired. I'm already very comfortable with French and I think I can potentiate it even more. This is just the beginning.
